MOSCOW WAITED IN VAIN

England Did Not Explain De-

New York Herald Bureau, Paris, Oct. 14.

The Soviet Government's refusal to ratify the contract with the Russia-Asiatic Consolidated Ltd., involving the return and reopening of vast mining interests, is typical of a long series of similar cases by which the Bolsheviks have sacrificed their own economic interests for political considerations.

Although the British Government has modified its original position excluding the Soviet Government from participation in the Straits settlement, Maxim Litvinoff told the foreign correspondents in Berlin that the attitude of the British Government was too unfavorable toward the Soviet Government to justify ratifying the Russia-Asiatic contract.

The refusal was emphatic and in contrast to the consideration given French concessions for which contracts were ratified at the same time.

"It is no secret that our negotiating the contract with Leslie Urquhart, director of the Russia-Asiatic Consolidated, Ltd., was prompted chiefly by political considerations," said Litvinoff. "The Geneva and Hague conferences demonstrated clearly that the regulation of political relationships between Russia and the rest of the world was hampered by the absence of a settlement between Russia and her claimants among private citizens. Attempts at a settlement with private persons through their Governments failed utterly at these conferences."

"The bargain with Urquhart was the first attempt at a direct settlement between the Russian Government and a group of private claimants. Russia agreed to heavy economic sacrifices in the hope that by satisfying 35 per cent. of the claimants this would improve the relationship between Russia and the British."

"The fact that England participated in the Paris decision to exclude the Soviet Government from participation in the Near Eastern conference. Immediately after the signing of the Urquhart agreement seemed to indicate hostility. It was an unfavorable sign and forecast the beginning of a new British policy toward Russia, opposed to the Prime Minister's desire to reestablish normal relations."

"Thus our chief purpose for the Urquhart agreement—the improvement of Anglo-Russian relations—had disappeared. The Soviet Government waited in vain in the hope that Great Britain would retrace the false steps she took at Paris. The British Government, however, made no attempt to explain this action."

"The Russian Government is very reluctant about mixing politics with private agreements, but it has been forced to follow the initiative of other governments. The Russians are no longer prepared to make economic sacrifices for the sake of illusory political advantages. The decision in the Urquhart case does not imply a change in the Soviet policy."

Farman Says It Is Impossible to Make Needed Planes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

New York Herald Bureau, Paris, Oct. 14.

The scheme of American and British capitalists for a transatlantic airplane service with planes carrying 100 passengers was characterized as premature by Maurice Farman, airplane builder.

"Our largest machines are the Goliaths, with a wing spread of 100 feet and about the same length," he said, "but we are building new machines to be equipped with four engines, which certainly will be the largest and most powerful in the world."

"I do not believe it is yet possible to build an airplane large enough or substantial enough to cross the ocean regularly. There is no limit to the distance planes may operate, but there must be landing places in case of emergency. It will come eventually; but while we are building constantly larger craft we must perfect all the details carefully and not attempt to construct such a monster so soon."

Ex-Kaiser, Ill, Sends His Physician to Sick Son

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD.
New York Herald Bureau, Paris, Oct. 14.

BOTH the ex-Kaiser and the former Crown Prince are ill, the latter's condition necessitating calling the Kaiser's court physician from Dorn to Wieringen, according to a dispatch received by The New York Herald of Paris from Utrecht this morning. The former Emperor has been able to remain up, but the Crown Prince has been confined to his room for several days, alarming symptoms following recent attacks of coughing being believed by his friends to predicate more serious lung troubles. Wilhelm's illness is considered merely nervous, due to excitement in preparations for his coming marriage.

DE VALERA CHANGES MIND ON TACTICS

At First Wanted Army to Proclaim Irish Parliament as Illegal.

DUBLIN, Oct. 14.—The Daily Express issued a white paper to-night containing the captured correspondence of Eamon de Valera and others.

The correspondence discloses that on September 6, three days before the meeting of the Irish Parliament, De Valera wrote Liam Lynch, Commander in Chief of the republican forces, "approving the suggestion that the army should proclaim Parliament as an illegal assembly."

The next day he wrote, saying he had changed his mind, and urged republicans to abstain themselves on the ground that the assembly summoned was only a provisional Parliament. The army was not strong enough to proclaim Parliament, the letter stated.

On September 12 De Valera wrote that if it was the policy of the party to leave all to the army the obvious thing for the members to do was to resign their positions as public representatives.

On September 14 the correspondence discloses that De Valera urged a statement to be prepared saying that the new Dail was not a legitimate successor of the old one and calling upon the trustees to hand over to them the money that was subscribed to maintain the Irish republic.

VENIZELLOS DECLARES HE IS OUT OF POLITICS

ATHENS, Oct. 14 (Associated Press).—Former Premier Venizelos telegraphs that his previous declarations regarding his withdrawal from political life are final and sincere. He says he has decided irrevocably not to reenter politics in Greece. He has agreed to represent Greece in the diplomatic field because he feels it is his duty, as no Greek could refuse to help his country in the hour of disaster.

CALL MORATORIUM QUITE INADMISSIBLE

French Object to British Plan for Delaying German Payments Five Years.

PARIS, Oct. 14 (Associated Press).—A total moratorium on German reparations payments for five years—both on cash payments and deliveries in kind—is the substance of the scheme presented to the Reparation Commission by Sir John Bradbury, British member of the commission, which the French Government has announced it considers "quite inadmissible."

The aim of the plan is to restore the mark to a value that would make the balancing of the German budget possible. Sir John favors entire reorganization of the commission with an American as one of the active members and a change of the seat to Berlin.

The plan provides for the continuance of Germany's deliveries in kind under an arrangement by which the country receiving the goods would guarantee an equivalent sum in German bonds, the bonds to be negotiable by Germany. The proposals are:

First—To relieve the German budget almost entirely of the cost of the charges of the treaty of peace for two, and possibly four, years, by enabling Germany to obtain credits to cover the charges.

Second—To fix the exchange value of the mark by an arrangement under which the Reichsbank would sell them for paper marks at a fixed price to be determined by a mixed commission.

Third—To reorganize the Reparations Commission and transfer it to Berlin. One object of the plan would be to stop the further expansion of the floating debt and to obtain a budget balance either by a complete suspension of cash payments accompanied by the almost complete suspension of deliveries in kind for a considerable period, according to Sir John's opinion.

NEW SIMPLON TUNNEL TO BE OPENED MONDAY

Second Tube Completed, Expediting European Travel.

GENEVA, Oct. 14 (Associated Press).—The second or parallel tube of the Simplon Tunnel, the longest in the world, has been completed. The last rail was laid and the electric installation finished yesterday.

The tube will be opened Monday, the double tunnels greatly expediting international travel.

The Simplon Tunnel, which pierces the Alps near the pass of the same name across which a road was constructed under the orders of Napoleon I, is twelve and a half miles long. The original tube was opened in 1905 at a cost of more than $3,000,000.

FRENCH SEAMEN ASK FOR GENERAL STRIKE

Labor Federation Calls on Workers to Resist Move
Against 8 Hour Day.

MARSEILLES, Oct. 14.—Seamen here have adopted a resolution calling for a general strike throughout France to support the movement against the modification of the eight-hour law, recently decreed by the Ministry of Marine. An appeal is made to the French Federation of Labor and the Communist Federation to join.

of Labor and the Communist Federation to join.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—All workers are urged by the executive committee of the general federation of labor to resist to the utmost "the Government's and the employers' offensive against the eight-hour day and attempts to lower wages." Resolutions have been adopted by the committee telling the workmen to prepare immediately for resistance throughout the country and asking the dock workers to cooperate with the seamen to make the shipping strike effective and to pledge moral support to the seamen's federations.

International labor organizations, particularly those of miners and transportation workers, are urged to act together in defense of the eight hour day.

Making a Stone Pot

THIS Eskimo is hollowing out a square stone cooking pot with the bow drill, an implement known to all primitive peoples. Naturally the work is very slow but the utensil when done will last indefinitely. Eskimo women take kindly to the lighter cooking utensils sold by the trader because they are portable and require much less fire for cooking than do the native utensils. Both of these considerations are important in the Arctic where the family moves frequently from place to place to secure food, and where the only fire is the feeble flame of a seal-oil lamp.

White Foxes

The real business of this Eskimo is hunting the White Fox, one of the most beautiful and useful of Arctic fur-bearing animals. A consignment of White Fox skins, trapped by this hunter and his friends, has just been received at the Revillon warehouse.
